Starlight – Tan

• In Conversation with History

A pair of the century basket from California's 'Yuk to Be', a 1940s Navajo wool saddle blanket, a 1977 Pueblo pottery jar made for carrying water, a 1960s Hopi woven bowl — these are the precious pieces from the Museum of Indian Arts + Culture that inspired Hartmann & Forbes' new window-covering collection created in homage to the natural materials and design motifs of Native craft traditions.

Classical Studies •

Natural materials are promoted to mythical status in artist Matthew Fisher's collection with Bernards Lighting Co., which transforms the "elements" materials of stone, leather and metal into fabulous light fixtures, inspired by the lore of Cretan princess Ariadne.

• Sustainable Scallops

Botswana-based Mabeco Studios celebrates traditional South African crochet patterns in a new collection available through Design Within Reach. Crafted from gonga (orange wood) that's been sustainably sourced from a forestry stewardship organization in Mozambique, the collection comprises six delightfully scalloped, striking sculptural furniture pieces.
