Barbara Barry x Hartmann & Forbes

Nature is the source of all Barbara Barry's ideas, driving her to find inspiration in details as simple as fallen leaves and garden clippings—both of which influenced one particular hue choice as she began designing her new collection for Hartmann & Forbes. "I live in a world of infinite greens: the green of palm trees, agaves, olives and pines," she says. "The nuances of how these all work together are brought to life in the clear and bright light of Southern California." Following a creative process that typically involves painting iterations of watercolors to help her home in on a final color palette, she produced 12 woven-to-size grassweaves and 14 natural walkcoverings in tones ranging from warm neutrals to shades of green and blue.
